Conference Structure

The Conference scientific programme will include plenary sessions in addition to special interest workshops. Major keynote sessions will be on Saturday morning in conjunction with the German Congress. The programme will feature international Manual Medicine clinicians and researchers.

Conference Language

The official Conference languages are English and French. There are English and French sections. Translations in German are partially provided. The official language of the German DGMM Congress (September 24 – 26) at the same location is German.

Call for Papers

The Conference invites paper submissions to be considered for inclusion in the scientific sessions. Paper submission must be current and topical and should preferably address one of the following topic themes:

1. Neurophysiology of pain
2. Physiology of the muscle system
3. Evidence on chronic pain developments
4. Differential Diagnosis in functional disorders
5. Validated therapeutic approaches

To submit a paper/poster

Complete the registration form and indicate that you are submitting a paper for consideration. List the topic theme appropriate to your paper on the registration form. Return the form together with the abstract. Abstracts must be typed in 10-point font, maximum of 250 words, along with your name and organization, contact telephone number, email, and fax number. Be sure to include title and topic theme. Return the abstract to the address indicated. Further information regarding the call for papers and other conference information may be found at www.fimm-online.com.

Posters shall be submitted by E-Mail to the Congress Organizer.

Deadline for papers and posters: March 31, 2010.
